

Russell 1000 Utilities RIC 22.5/45 Capped Index

Data as at: 28 April 2023

The Russell 1000 ICB Capped indexes are US large cap sector indexes based on the Russell 1000 Index and Industries within the ICB sector classification framework. The indexes apply regulatory capping targets at the quarterly reviews, in consideration of either the Regulated Investment Company (RIC) requirements for diversification or the definition of a "Diversified Company" via SEC.5.b(1) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 (40 Act). The 40 Act Daily Capped indexes are monitored daily, and the methodology is designed to maintain constituent weights below 40 Act thresholds.

The Russell 1000 Utilities RIC 22.5/45 Capped Index measures the performance of US large cap companies that are assigned to the Utility Industry by the ICB sector classification framework. At the quarterly index reviews, all companies that have a weight greater than 4.5% in aggregate are no more than 45% of the index, and no individual company in the index has a weight greater than 22.5% of the index.

FEATURES

Objective

Designed for use in the creation of index tracking funds, derivatives and as a performance benchmark.

Investability

A transparent and replicable index construction strategy. Stocks in the underlying universe are screened to ensure that the index is tradable.

Capping

Constituents are capped quarterly so that no more than 22.5% of the index weight may be allocated to a single constituent and the sum of the weights of all constituents representing more than 4.5% of the index should not exceed 45% of the total index weight.

Transparency

The index uses a transparent, rules-based construction process. Index Methodologies are freely available on the FTSE Russell website.

Industry Classification Benchmark (ICB)

ICB is a comprehensive and rules based, transparent classification methodology based on research and market trends designed to support investment solutions. It was launched in 2005 and enhanced in 2019 with the integration of the Russell Global Sectors (RGS) classification scheme and additional structural enhancements.
