FTSE DAR Classification of Digital Asset Exchanges

December 2023 Eligibility Review Results Announcement

11 January 2024

The classification status of digital asset exchanges that are eligible as a pricing source for the FTSE DAR Reference Prices is governed by the FTSE DAR Digital Asset Exchange Vetting Process. FTSE DAR Reference Prices for Benchmark Assets are used in the calculation of the FTSE Global Digital Asset Index Series.

The FTSE DAR Digital Asset Exchange Vetting Process is used to determine if a digital asset exchange qualifies as “Participating”, “Watchlist” or “Unclassified”. It allows for a pre-determined quarterly review of digital asset exchanges at each March, June, September and December month-end, and details the instances in which there would be an immediate loss of eligibility based on published criteria.

The results of the December 2023 FTSE DAR Digital Asset Exchange Review, including this Intra-Quarter Review can be found in the remainder of this announcement. The next quarterly review will take place in March 2024.

1. Watchlist Exchanges

The following digital asset exchanges have been reclassified from “Unclassified” to “Watchlist” after meeting the criteria for “Watchlist” exchange as of the December 2023 review:

- Bittrue
- Cryptology
- EXMO
- OKX
- Woo Network

Prices from these exchanges will contribute to FTSE DAR Reference Prices – Non-Benchmark Assets, effective 19 January 2024 at 22:00:15 UTC.

2. Unclassified Exchanges

The following digital asset exchanges have been reclassified from “Watchlist” to “Unclassified” after failing the criteria for “Watchlist” exchange as of the December 2023 review:

- BingX
- Bitmex
- CEX.IO
- Delta Exchange
- ExMarkets
- Nominex
- One Trading

Prices from these exchanges will no longer contribute to FTSE DAR Reference Prices – Non-Benchmark Assets, effective 19 January 2024 at 22:00:15 UTC.
